Please join us in welcoming Mark van Soestbergen as he discusses carbon offsets and greenhouse gas inventories.

He will also elaborate on how carbon offsets and greenhouse gas inventories are beneficial, both on the practical implementation side for clients and on the policy level per building, city/county, state, and national level.

Mr. van Soestbergen has worked in the greenhouse gas arena for almost twenty years. He started in 1990 by designing Carbon Zero Fuel strategies for a major Japanese oil company, and funded tree planting in Asia by selling 'eco-car' stickers to offset vehicles. He has since worked on database solutions to track emission activities in large organizations and facilitated one of the first international transactions of certified emission reductions. He is a frequent lecturer on climate change adaptation strategies, greenhouse gas accounting, and carbon portfolio management.

Mr. van Soestbergen is the Co-founder of the International Carbon Bank and Exchange, Inc., an organization dedicated to providing individuals and organizations the ability to manage emissions information in a bank-like environment. He also organized first issuance of Emission Reduction Credits (ERC) to a LEED certified building and is the Co-founder of the Florida Renewable Resource Conservation and Development Council.
