Please join us in learning about how Green Building is fueling North Florida's Economy.

Ben Moore is an Energy & Environmental Planner with Reynolds, Smith and Hills (RS&H). Prior to joining RS&H, Ben served as Director of the Energy and Climate Program at the Coastal Conservation

League and as a technical advisor to the Charleston Green Plan & the South Carolina Climate, Energy and Commerce Committee. He holds a masters degree in Environmental Management from Duke University with a certificate in Energy and the Environment and a bachelor's degree from Haverford

Omega Allen is the Program Manager for the City of Jacksonville's Neighborhood Stabilization Program. She is a Certified General Contractor with commercial and residential experience. Green building is her construction focal point. Ms. Allen has many years of public service as the Chair of the Northwest Trust Fund Advisory Committee through which economic development was substantially enhanced throughout business communities north and west of the St. Johns River. She is a former educator in the Duval County School system and native Floridian.

Derek Igou has been employed by the City of Jacksonville since 1988 when he was hired as an Engineering Technician with the Regulatory and Environmental Services Department (now Environmental and Compliance Department). He has held several positions with the City including Public Relations Manager, Cable Franchise Manager, Division Chief of the Public Parking Division, and Division Chief of the Property Safety Division. He now serves as the Deputy Director of the Environmental and Compliance Department. In 2008, Mr. Igou was appointed by Mayor John Peyton as the city's Sustainability Officer.
